From the Corner Room

November 2022

The leaves are falling, and the weather is turning colder. Fall is here to stay and maybe a touch of winter is in the air.

Intro to Design students are using their knowledge of design principles and elements to design products in the classroom. They completed a paper shoe using color schemes, examples of design principles using craft foam objects, tessellations, and a batik project.

PBL students have completed a variety of projects ranging from preparing for a start-up business to making fantastic cookies. Students are continuing to complete projects through the end of the semester.

Eighth grade students moved into FACS the second quarter the middle of October. They did a quick Digital Review followed by learning about a variety of Ag Careers. The highlight of that unit was an original pizza created and designed by individual groups.

Job Applications, Resumes, Business Thank-you, Interview practice, working with paychecks and taxes completed the Business and Job Search unit of Senior Skills. Seniors are on track to either planning for college or planning to enter the work force full time.

Textiles class completed a couple of units, hemming a flannel baby receiving blanket, making a simple pencil case zipper bag, and learning how to make buttonholes on their machines. November and December will be time for students to pursue projects of their choice.

The Foods students have completed a fruit unit, an egg unit, a dairy unit. They will be planning pasta, meat, and dessert units in the next month. Their skills and efficiency in the kitchen preparing food are improving dramatically.

From Mr. Barnes' Social Studies Room:

Congratulations to 7th grade student Savannah Cutshall on winning the Quarter one "Just" Jar competition in Mr. Barnes' room. This year the 7th grade students agreed to have a "Just" jar to encourage the improvement of their word choice while they continue to develop writing skills. Much like the concept of a "swear" jar, each time the students submit a homework assignment Mr. Barnes reviews it for any non-professional words that seek to detract from the intended meaning of the sentence. For example, if words such as "things", "just", "got", or "get" to list a few, are found in the assignment, that student will have their name placed in the jar. The student at the end of the Quarter with the least amount of names in the jar is awarded the prize which happens to be - JUST A BUNCH OF CANDY!

Seniors! A reminder of what to do this fall...

There's A LOT going on right now with the financial aid and college admission processes, but don't get overwhelmed! Here's a recap of tasks you should complete this fall to stay on track to college.

- First, create a Federal Student Aid account (FSA ID) for you and one for a parent at studentaid.gov. You'll need the user names and passwords to access and sign the FAFSA.
- Review the FAFSA Checklist at EducationQuest.org for items to gather before you start the form.
- Complete the FAFSA at studentaid.gov.
- For free help with the FAFSA, see FAFSA Tools at EducationQuest.org or call EducationQuest to make a virtual appointment. Lincoln – Headquarters Office: 402-475-5222 or 800-303-3745.

Apply to your top college choices!

Check out the EducationQuest CollegeProfiles. You can search colleges by name, location (anywhere in the United States), tuition rates, size of campus, majors, athletics, and more!

Retake the ACT. Some colleges will use your best scores for college admission and scholarships and your best score will be on your official school transcript.

Get serious about applying for scholarships. See ScholarshipQuest at EducationQuest.org for Nebraska-based scholarships and a list of national search sites.

Juniors! Start researching colleges...

If you narrow your college choices by the end of your junior year, your senior year will be less stressful. Here's how to get started:

Review College Profiles at EducationQuest.org to learn about colleges in Nebraska and across the country. If you're interested in an out-of-state school, check out the Midwest Student Exchange Program to learn about tuition discounts.

Once you narrow your choices, schedule campus visits. Try to visit in the spring of your junior year while colleges are in session.

For more tips, see the Finding the Right Fit section at EducationQuest.org.

All Sophomores will be taking the PreACT on Friday, Nov. 4th

Backpack Connection Series

About this Series

The Backpack Connection Series was created by TACSEI to provide a way for teachers and parents/caregivers to work together to help young children develop social emotional skills and reduce challenging behavior. Teachers may choose to send a handout home in each child's backpack when a new strategy or skill is introduced to the class. Each Backpack Connection handout provides information that helps parents stay informed about what their child is learning at school and specific ideas on how to use the strategy or skill at home.

The Pyramid Model

The Pyramid Model is a framework that provides programs with guidance on how to promote social emotional competence in all children and design effective interventions that support young children who might have persistent challenging behavior. It also provides practices to ensure that children with social emotional delays receive intentional teaching. Programs that implement the Pyramid Model are eager to work together with families to meet every child's individualized learning and support needs. To learn more about the Pyramid Model, please visit ChallengingBehavior.org.

How to Help Your Child Transition Smoothly Between Places and Activities

Alyson Jiron, Brooke Brogle & Jill Giacomini

Transitioning, or moving, to new places, people and activities is something we do many times during the day. However, change can be overwhelming and seem unpredictable for your child, especially when she is not ready to move on to the next place or activity. Children make many transitions each day—from parents to teachers, from home to car, or from play time to the dinner table, for example. When and how often transitions occur are usually decided by an adult and children often act out with challenging behavior when they feel unable to control their routine. When you help your child prepare for transitions you are helping her to learn a valuable skill. The good news is that you can teach her this important skill while you are enjoying time together.

Try This at Home

- Use a timer, an instrument or a funny noise to give your child advance warning of routine transition events. If possible, ask him to help "alert" everyone to the upcoming event. For example, let your toddler bang a pot with a wooden spoon to let the family know it is time for dinner.
- Let your child pick out a special object or toy to transition with to the next activity or place. "Would kitty like to come with us to the grocery store? I wonder if she could help us find the items on our list?"
- Use a visual schedule to show your child the plan for the day. "First, you have school and then we are going to take Aunt Rachel's gift to the post office and mail it to her."
- Make the transition a game or activity where the child has the opportunity to move around. "I wonder if today we can use this big shovel to scoop the cars into the bucket while we clean up?" If possible, let him think of the game. "I wonder how we could get to the car today?" You might be surprised at his creativity and how much fun you have roaring like a dinosaur or hopping like a rabbit.
- Sing songs as you transition. Children love to hear songs as they move about their day. Make up silly songs together about what you are doing or where you are going. You are sure to get a laugh and likely a smooth transition.
- Give your child a job. Children are more cooperative when they can be part of the process. Perhaps he can help stir something for dinner, unlock the car doors with the remote or pick out a diaper before a diaper change.

Practice at School

Children transition from one activity to the next throughout their day at preschool. Teachers plan for transitions in advance by creating special routines. These routines help to prepare children for transitions, engage them in the change that is taking place and help them to move smoothly to the next activity. Teachers might use a special instrument or song to let children know it is clean up time. Teachers might read books to the children while they are standing in line waiting for a turn to wash their hands before snack or create an obstacle course or morning routine to help children and parents transition at drop-off. When children are able to participate in or lead the transition, they are excited and eager to move to a new activity.

The Bottom Line

The more a child can predict and participate in the schedule and activities of her day, the less likely it is that challenging behavior will occur and the more likely it is that she will eagerly engage in transitions to new people and places. Taking the time and making the effort to teach her what to expect, when it will happen, and what happens before the transition occurs can be a rewarding experience. Most importantly, it is also an opportunity for quality time that can help lead to smoother transitions.
